PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

Heartrending Scene at a Fire in Which Four Innocents Meet a Frightful Death.

Three Times the Frantic Mother Braves the Roaring Flames and is Held Back.

The Toronto Globe Urges C. P. R. Absorption of the Intercolonial Railway.

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., Oct. 31.—On Thursday Mrs. Marrier went to a neighbor's, leaving her four children in the house. Soon fire was discovered and some men rushed to the rescue. The poor demented mother dashed into the burning structure and would doubtless have been burned herself had not a man dragged her back. This was repeated three times. When the men found it impossible to do anything from the ground floor, they got a neighbor's gate and clambered up to the flames. When they were attempting an entrance below, the cries of the suffering children were awful. Then followed a terrible, heart-rending shriek and all was silent, save the crackling of the burning wood. After the fire had been extinguished the charred remains of the four little ones were taken out. The children were aged respectively five, two and a half, four and six years.

A Paper Combination.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y.—A movement is on foot for American paper manufacturers to combine with the paper manufacturers of Canada with English capitalists behind the concern. It was stated that a combination will soon be effected. It is understood an export duty on spruce will be demanded as a a retaliatory duty for the McKinley tariff on wood pulp.

Fell Into Boiling Fat.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—A terrible accident occurred on Saturday at the village of Coteau St. Pierre, by which the litte two-year-old daughter of Mr. A. Sauvage was dangerously injured. The little girl fell into a pot of boiling fat, and before she was taken out the flesh was peeled off her arms. She is likely to die.

Will Consult Webster.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—Minister of Marine Tupper, who has been preparing the Canadian counter case to be submitted in the Behring Sea arbitration, in answer to the American case, leaves for England via New York, to morrow, to consult the leading British counsel, ex-Attorney General Webster, before the final documents are filed.

Dashed to Death.

QUEBEC, Oct. 31.—A shocking accident occurred here at noon. A three-year-old son of Mr. Russell, of New York, fell from a window in the third story of his father's house, St. Louis street, and received such injuries that he cannot live.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

Premier Davie's Visit—The Globe's New Attitude.

OTTAWA, Oct. 32.—Mr. Ouimet and Mr. Carling were present with Sir John Thompson at the interview Premier Davie had with the Government to-day. The meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock until to-morrow. Mr. Davie told the TIMES correspondent after the conference that he was well satisfied with the progress the case had made. Mr. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, was also in attendance at the interview.

There is great comment here over the leading article in the Globe of Saturday advocating the sale of the Intercolonial to the Canadian Pacific, and also recommending the Government to give more encouragement to the latter to go into the fast mail steamship business.

THE ROYAL CITY.

Further Adjournment of the Beegans—Pittendrigh's Funeral To-day.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 31.—The Vancouver team beat the Westminister's at Association football for medals on Saturday by five goals to two. The match was a poor one, the play being very weak.

Argument on the motion to quash the Vancouver bonus by-law is again proceeding. It will last all day and many more to follow.

The Beegans, "Birdie" Kazar, and Pearl Deming were further remanded to-day for eight days in the murder of May Todhunter.

A. E. Pittendrigh's funeral takes place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It will be a big affair with full military honors. The funeral will take place from St. Mary's hospital to Holy Trinity Cathedral, thence to the cemetery. A number of old timers are working on the case, and have private detectives engaged with them. There are no new features. Public interest in the case is intense.

The Mechanics' Institute have elected the following officers: President, J. Reid; First Vice, T. Turnbull; Second Vice, P. Bowler; Secretary, G. C. Hodge; Treasurer, G. B. McLellan. Board of Management, L. MacRae, W. W. Forester, H. W. Newington, M. H. Chisholm, J. T. Wilson and C. C. Steuart.

Charleston's Celebration.

CHARLESTON, S.C., Oct. 31.—Charleston will keep open house this week, and the latch-string will be on the outside for every stranger who seeks to cross her portals. To-day is the opening of the festival in commemoration of the escape of the city from total destruction in the earthquake of 1886. An elaborate programme has been arranged comprising civic and trade processions, mass meeting, musical celebrations, and fire-works. By permission of the navy department United States cruisers Dauphin and Vesuvius have arrived here to take part in a reproduction of the attack by the Federal fleet on Fort Sumpter. A fort which is an exact duplication of the famous old piece of masonry has been erected, and the land batteries of the Confederates and guns of the cruisers will exchange smoke and fire as though they were in dead earnest.

ESCAPED BY A MIRACLE.

Close Call of a Wellington Miner—Sale of the Electric Light Plant.

NANAIMO, Oct. 31.—A. Whitehead, employed in East Wellington mine, miraculously escaped death on Saturday. He had prepared a shot and ignited the train. He thought the squib had gone out, so returned to relight it. When quite near the shot exploded and threw two or three tons of coal upon him, completely burying him. He was dug out and, to the surprise of everyone was found uninjured.

The football match, Saturday, Nanaimo vs. Westminster, resulted in three tries to one in favor of Nanaimo. It was an interesting match. The teams had a smoking concert in the evening.

Arthur Webb, a boy, met with a painful accident on Saturday night while playing with fire crackers. He picked up a bunch of fire crackers, lit them, and as they did not go off quickly enough, stooped down to fan them into flame. They suddenly exploded and seriously burnt his face from nose to forehead. The victim suffered terrible agony.

The fact that the electric light works was knocked down for $25,040 caused no surprise here, as those who knew about the matter said the $30,000 figure would never be reached.

VANCOUVER VERITIES.

Arbitrators' Fees Cut Down—Mr. Hamersley's Real Position.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 31.—The Navy Rugby club won a hard-fought match from the Vancouver club on Saturday by a try to nil.

The tie Association football match of the Westminster exhibition was played off on Saturday, when Vancouver won by 5 to 1.

A joint blowing out on the water pipe main across the Narrows cut off the water supply for six hours on Sunday morning. The pressure is now uniform at 80.

The finance committee on Saturday cut down the arbitrators' fees on the Westminster avenue extension from $180 on valuation of building, and $150 on land, to $25 for each on both.

A. E. Rand left on Sunday for England.

Hermans Schone German society give their annual ball Thursday.

The paragraph in Saturday's TIMES stating that City Solicitor Hamersley's resignation was requested by the finance committee was partially incorrect. The matter has been openly discussed by the aldermen, but it seems never officially, and no minute to that effect has yet appeared in the proceedings of any committee or of the council. The aldermen have already been canvassed by several would-be appointees.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

Matters of Interest Going Forward in the Sporting World, Here and Elsewhere

THE RING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—There will be great times to-night in the big auditorium of the Coney Island Athletic club, where Joe Choynski, the clever Californian, and George Godfrey, the Boston colored heavy-weight, will cross swords, or rather fists, for a $5000 purse, and a solace in the shape of a couple of thousand dollars to the loser. The mill has attracted representative members of the pugilistic and sporting fraternities from all over the country, and the capacity of the big rink could have been sold twice over. Both men have trained hard, Choynski having put in his time at Naversink Island with Buffalo Costello and Jim McVey as his trainers. The betting this morning is heavy, and the odds favor the Californian, owing to a large influx of California gold.

YACHTING.

THE AMERICA CUP.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 31.—The Herreshoffs have begun designs and ordered material for the construction of a flyer to contest with anything Lord Dunraven or any other Englishman may bring across the "big pond." An order for her has been made by one of the wealthiest of New England manufacturers. The Herreshoffs are to be paid a large price, and they are to pay a forfeit if the boat does not retain the America cup.

THE ZAMBESI ARRIVES.

The Northern Pacific Steamer Makes a Fairly Good Run Across the Pacific.

The Northern Pacific steamship Zambesi arrived at the outer wharf this morning from Yokohama. She left there on the 16th inst., making the run across in 14 days and 16 hours. The trip was uneventful, the weather during the first few days being fine, while fogs and thick weather interfered with the latter part of the trip.

The Zambesi brought over four cabin passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Yoemans and child and Mr. Henderson. She brought 80 Chinese. The cabin passengers are bound for Seattle, while most of the Chinese were landed here. She has 1800 tons of freight; 500 tons for Victoria.

She leaves for the Sound to-night after discharging Victoria freight.

HOT SOUTHERN BLOOD.

Plenty of it Spilled at a Stormy Democratic Meeting in a Tennessee Town.

Knives and Pistols Deal Death and Fatal Wounds, but Fail to Stop the Speaker.

Death of an Aeronaut—Canadian-American Paper Union—Davie at Ottawa.

RALEIGH, N.C., Oct. 31.—Rev. Dr. Geo. W. Sanderson, late auditor, returned to-day from a canvassing tour west of the Blue Ridge mountains, in this state, which proved to be the most exciting of his life.

His trip was through Mitchell and Yancey counties, which are on the Tennessee border and which contain the worst element of law breakers in the entire state. He had an appointment to speak at Burnsville, the county seat of Yancey county. A gang of desperadoes in that county had sworn that no Democratic speakers should be heard, and when they found that Dr. Sanderson declined to put off his speech, they determined to assassinate him on the day of the meeting. A very large crowd gathered, coming from all parts of the county on horse-back. The meeting was conducted in the court house, and the room was well filled. There was large crowd outside, composed of Republicans, who renewed the old threats and seemed determined to have a row. Their leader was Bud Parot, a noted desperado, who was for a time an outlaw. To him was assigned the duty of killing Dr. Sanderson. The latter was informed of the threats of the mob and its desperate attitude, but the Democrats who filled the court house assured him that he should be heard and receive support and protection.

He is a fine speaker and soon after he began his speech there was a commotion at the door of the court room. This was causen by the entrance of Bud Parot who was armed with a big knife. He at once began to curse Sanderson and swore he would kill him. While speaking he attempted to elbow his way towards Sanderson along the aisle. A number of Democrats seized Parot and rushed him toward the outer door of the court house.

As soon as the door was opened the Parot gang rushed to his assistance; pistols were fired, knives were drawn, and a desperate fight raged on the steps of the courthouse and in front of the building. A number were shot or cut.

The Democrats, however, got the best of this encounter, and drove their opponents from the building. Dr. Sanderson then resumed his speech. Suddenly the Republicans re-assembled in force, and two of their number forced their way into the courtroom, but were instantly seized and thrown out. Then the fight was renewed more desperately than before.

Parot was shot twice through the body and killed, while a Democrat named Phillips was so terribly cut that he died shortly afterward. Three other men whose names Dr. Sanderson did not ascertain, were also killed. More than a dozen men were seriously injured with bullets and knives. Dr. Sanderson says that in leaving the court house the scene reminded him of his war experience. The dead and wounded were lying everywhere.

Cotton Trade Improving.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The impression is growing in Lancashire that the threatened strike of the cotton spinners will be averted. It is asserted that negotiations looking to the arbitration of the questions in dispute were instigated by the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners upon finding little disposition among the members of the federation to adopt a lockout in view of the improved condition of the market. The whole trouble in Lancashire appears to lie in the fact that the United States and India cotton spinning has so increased that there is not employment for all the Lancashire spindles.

Death of an Aeronaut.

HARPER, Kan., Oct. 31.—L. R. Driscoll, an aeronaut was fatally injured while making an ascention at this place yesterday afternoon. When the balloon had reached a considerable height, it suddenly collapsed. Then Driscoll started to come down in his parachute. At a height of 80 feet the balloon struck the parachute, knocking it to one side and causing Driscoll to fall to the earth. When picked up he was insensible and his injuries were pronounced fatal.

TO THE SERVICE OF GOD.

The New Roman Catholic Cathedral is Dedicated by Bishop Lemmens.

Solemn and Impressive Ceremonies and Grand Music Mark the Occasion.

Archbishop Gross Defends Christ's Divinity and the Honor of the Church.

Victoria Roman Catholics on Sunday assisted at ceremonies that will mark an era in the progress of Roman Catholicism in the Province of British Columbia. The ceremonies were the dedicatory services of the new St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral. While the service of dedication took only a little over half an hour, the other services occupied the greater part of the day.

Clergy from all parts of the archdiocese of Portland, of which the diocese of Vancouver Island is suffragan, were in attendance. There were upwards of twenty visiting clergy. The number would have been doubled had the services occurred at a more opportune time than immediately preceding the feasts of All Saints and All Souls.

The dedication service proper was private. It took place at 8 o'clock in the morning. Bishop Lemmens performed the ceremony. It is customary for Catholic prelates to bless or consecrate cathedrals or churches in their own diocese. Standing before the front door of the Cathedral, Bishop Lemmens recited a prayer of invocation to Almighty God, to the blessed Virgin and to the patron saint of the church, St. Andrew, to bless the building in the worship of God, and to protect those who would worship in it. Preceded by the cross-bearer and two acolytes, bearing lighted tapers, Bishop Lemmens then made a circuit of the outside of the church, sprinkling the walls of the building with holy water. The sprinkling with holy water is a common practice among Roman Catholics. Everything that the Roman Catholic Church dedicates to God; an infant child in baptism, the remains of a deceased member of that church, and a building dedicated for the worship of the Almighty, have all the blessed water sprinkled upon them.

While the circuit of the church was being made the clergy chanted the psalm, Miserere.

For a second time, Bishop Lemmens, the circuit of the outer walls of the church having been made, stood before the front portal of the cathedral. Another invocation, similar to the first, was recited by him. The cathedral door was then opened and the long procession of clergy and acolytes entered, chanting the litany of All Saints. The procession walked down the centre aisle to the main altar. Standing before the main altar the Bishop then recited prayers for the third time beseeching the Almighty to bless the building they are about to dedicate. Then an inner circuit of the cathedral was made, holy water being again sprinkled upon the walls, the clergy chanting the Aspergus. Other psalms were chanted. The Bishops then asked that the Almighty accept of the cathedral church of St. Andrew the martyr, which had been dedicated to Him.

This concluded the actual dedication service.

Although the services were private and no one was allowed inside the church, a large number witnessed the service that took place outside of the church.

The solemn pontifical high mass attracted the largest gathering. At 10 o'clock the clergy assembled in the old cathedral, and for the last time in the old building fell down in adoration of the sacred Host. The bishop carried the Host in the moustrance from the old to the new cathedral, the members of the Young Men's Institute walking in a body at the head of the procession. This tranference of the sacred Host took 30 minutes. The new cathedral doors had been thrown open for an hour before the beginning of mass. The church immediately began to fill, and when the clerical procession entered there was not a seat to be had. Many were crowded in the aisles, and others contented themselves by standing in the church portals.

The main altar was beautifully decorated with flowers and wax tapers arranged in pyramid form on each side of the tabernacle, and presented to the stranger a sight both unique and pretty. The Lady altar and the St. Joseph altar were also becomingly decorated with flowers and lighted candles. The episcopal throne on the gospel side was occupied by Bishop Lemmens, the celebrant of the pontifical mass. Archbishop Gross and Bishop Lootens had their thrones on the right or epistle side of the altar.

The ceremony of robing Bishop Lemmens in his pontifical vestments was a novelty to many strangers who eagerly stood up in their seats to catch a glimpse. The last notes of the thrilling triumphant march, played by the Warspite band upon the entrance of the clerical procession, had died away shortly before the ceremony of robing was concluded, and for awhile all was silence. Bishop Lemmens had been robed. His crozier was given him. He held it in his right hand, and surrounded by the clergy, also robed in the most gorgeous vestments, he ascended the altar steps and the words "Introibo ad altare," uttered by the bishop, announced to the faithful that the first mass in the new cathedral had begun.

The officers of the mass were Rev. Father Fayard, assistant priest; deacons of honor, Very Rev. Father Demanes of Seattle, Rev. Father Grosse of North Carolina; deacon of mass, Rev. Father Nicolaye; sub-deacon, Rev. Father Leterme.

Archbishop Gross was attended to the throne by Very Rev. Father Hylebos, Tacoma, and Father Donckele. Rev. Father Althoff of Juneau and Rev. Father Heynen of Clayoquot acted as chaplains. Rev. Father Durand, Comox, was crozier bearer, and Rev. Father Solry, Nanaimo, mitre bearer. Rev. Father Van Goethen, censer bearer, and Rev. Father Van Nevel, master of ceremonies.

The choir sang Marzo's Mass. Professor Werner, the leader, ably directed a chorus of some thirty voices. The entire musical programme was well rendered. But the fact that the choir were in the second gallery considerably dulled the effect of the many fine selections. The general opinion was that the music would have sounded much better had the choir been in the lower gallery. The Kyrie and Gloria by Marzo were well executed. They were followed by the Graduale, composed by Professor A. Werner. This is a pretty piece, and its rendition was faultless. Then came Veni Creator, by Millier.

Archbishop Gross is a clear, forcible, logical speaker. Of handsome presence and with graceful gestures and interesting delivery, he is an orator who readily holds the undivided attention of his hearers. This may be understood when it is stated that it was nearly 1 o'clock when he concluded his sermon, and the mass was little more than half over, yet all present would have been satisfied to have had him go on. It be hard to pick a title for his sermon. It might be called "The Great Prophet," or "Two prophesies fulfilled," or even "The Catholic church, a divine institution." At all events it was a masterly effort. The speaker without any preface to his remarks began by pointing to Jesus Christ as the greatest prophet that ever lived.

"For did he not," said the speaker, "at an hour when all exalted him, when all did him honor and homage, predict the hour, means and cause of his death, and the hour of his resurrection?"

Going on the speaker described the fulfillment of the prophecy, and he told how the Romans who knew of it watched and guarded that it might not come true, and how the grave was sealed with a huge rock and sealed with the seal of state. It was fulfilled, however, and gloriously so. The speaker then passed to the prediction of Christ that the city of Jerusalem and the wonderful temple on Mount Moriah, should be destroyed and of the latter that not a stone upon a stone should remain, and all that too within the memory of the generation then living. He told of the siege of Jerusalem by Titus and of its incredible horror, of the strange being who for ten years before and up to the siege wandered through the streets of the Jewish city calling out "woe to Jerusalem" and "woe to the people" and of the terrible effect of the latter upon the Jews. The speaker drew a splendid picture of the attempt on all sides to save the temple. Titus wanted it because of its grandeur, and ordered the soldier who would injure it to be instantly executed. The Jews sought its preservation with their very lives. The Christians loved it as the place where their Saviour had walked and where his eloquence had astounded the teachers. Yet, in spite of all a Roman soldier's hand applied the torch, and the lovers of the place saw it reduced to a mass of rubbish. The battle ceased and all ran to the temple to save it, but in vain. The hand that cast the burning torch that caused the destruction was never known. The seige was resumed. The Jews fought with the valor of despair and the Romans with their usual determination and irresistible discipline.

At last the city fell, in Sept. 70, A.D., and Titus was victorious. He celebrated his victory by perpetrating great cruelties. A forest of gibbets on which 33,000 Jews were crucified was erected; and thousands were carried away captive to Rome, where they were either kept or sold like cattle to the four quarters of the earth. That was a partial fulfillment of the prophecy. It was completed when Julian the Apostate sought to re-erect the temple and prove Christ a falsifier. All the preparations were made, even to the clearing away the rubbish and cracked foundation stones on the site. Then, verily, not a stone remained upon a stone.

When the day came for the work to begin a terrible storm scattered the assembly, and sent the timbers and stones and other material crashing down upon the multitude. That was not, in their opinion, the wrath of God, and another attempt was made. Again a terrible storm, accompanied by an earthquake which sent balls of fire out of the earth. Then Julian ceased. The prophecy was fulfilled, and the Coliseum and grand arch, the latter to commemorate the victor of Titus, both erected by the captive Jews, stand in Rome to-day as monuments to its memory.

The Archbishop then took up the injunction of Christ to his apostles, "Go ye and teach all nations," etc., and the promise that He would be forever with them, even to the end of time. He asked the question if that too had been fulfilled. He connected the first Christians in Rome with the apostles, and then showed the unbroken line of Bishops of Rome from the time of Peter, Paul and John down to Leo XII., now reigning Pope. He told of all the efforts to disrupt the church, beginning in Rome and lasting for 300 years, or to the time of Constantine, during which period hundreds and thousands of martyrs were put to death.

He said that the Roman Catholic Church was teaching all men and all nations. A Pope had "given up all England to maintain a principle." Another had been dragged from Rome a captive by Napoleon. The Popes had for a thousand years fought back the Saracens when they first preached, and then organized the Crusades.

The world owed them a debt of gratitude, for every country where the Saracen or his successor remained supreme had been reduced almost to a desert.

In a clear, logical way he demonstrated to his hearers that Leo was a direct successor of Peter, and that the line of succession was unbroken by the storms of almost 2,000 years. He quoted the tribute of Lord Macaulay to the church, and asked if it was not true. He said that the most remarkable thing about the whole church was that it had 300,000,000 whose faith was absolutely the same. They differed on matters temporal, but not on faith.

In closing he paid a handsome compliment to the priests and bishops of this diocese, from the time of the missionary Fathers Demers and Lootens, both later bishops, and the former long since dead, down to Bishop Lemmens. To the latter and his clergy he said this beautiful house of worship spoke for their efforts.

Bishop Lemmens again ascended the altar steps from the episcopal throne and intoned aloud in a deep, penetrating voice "Credo in unum Deum." These words were taken up by the choir and the large congregation was treated to select music in Marzo's Credo. The remainder of the musical programme consisted of:

Offertory, Trio "Jesu Dei Vivi".....Verdi
Sanctus.....Marzo
Benedictus.....Millard
Agnus Dei, Alto and Sopr. Solo, Duet and Chorus.....Marzo
Te Deum, by Clergy.....Gregorian
Hallelujah Chorus, "Messiah".....Handel

The mass had begun about 10:30. It was 2 before the services were finished. The congregation had been kept in church for three and a half hours. The eloquence of Archbishop Grosse and the excellent vocal and instrumental music made the time pass quickly, and there were those who expressed the wish that it had continued a little longer.

After mass the prelates and clergy sat down to a dinner in the episcopal residence. Mrs. Patton, Miss Skinner, Miss McGeoghegan and Mrs. McNeill prepared the banquet. The altars in the church were decorated by Mrs. A. Davie, Mrs. Louis McQuade, Misses Skinner, McDowell and Dwyer.

The evening service, or vespers, was also attended by a large number. The interior of the sacred edifice was then seen to full advantage. The hundreds of electric lights mingling their lights with that of the many wax tapers upon the altars, gave the church a fine appearance. The stained glass windows were then seen in their full beauty. The cerulean ceiling of the roof was besprinkled with golden stars. The stars sparkled in the light and the scene was a pretty one. The singing of the choir could be heard for blocks away and many stood on the sidewalk near the church and listened to the sweet music.

The evening musical programme consisted of:

Compline.....Gregorian
Veni Sancte Spiritus.....Miller
Sermon
"Great is Jehovah the Lord," Tenor Solo and Chorus.....Schubert
Jesu Dei Vivi.....Verdi
Ave Maria.....Archbishop Seghers
Tantum Ergo, Grand Chorus.....Paolo Givaza
Laudate Domine.....Gregorian

Father Grosse, of North Carolina, preached the evening sermon. His discourse was upon the immortal soul.

The value of any article was to be estimated at the price paid for it. The price of the soul was beyond all human comparison as the price paid for it was the precious blood of the crucified Christ. Men in modern times thought too much of the pleasures and vanities of the world. They made themselves slaves to their vocations or to unlawful pleasures. They grasped at the shadow and missed the reality. The preacher cited many celebrated men of mediæval times who had secured everything that it was possible for them to attain in this world and yet they were sore at heart. Their pleasures turned to sorrows. What was honey had been converted into gall and wormwood. The lesson which he drew was that the riches and pleasures of this world should only be used as a means to an end, and that end was the attainment of never ceasing joys and happiness in the presence of the Almighty.

The evening service lasted for two hours. Several of the clergy left by the Kingston for the Sound, arrangements having been made to hold over the steamer.

Echoes from the Mines, Ranches, Villages and Towns of the Upper Country.

Rich Mica Specimens—Supper to a Noted Miner—A True Daughter of Columbia.

[From the Inland Sentinel.]

The second annual ball of the Kamloops fire brigade will be held on Tuesday evening, November 8th

The engineer who will erect the plant on the Thunder Hill Mines arrived at Golden from Chicago, and proceeded to the upper country by an early steamer.

Mr. Justice Walkem, having held Courts of Assize throughout Kootenay district, returned to Kamloops the first of this week and left again for Victoria on Friday evening.

The Pioneer Brass Band did a very appropriate thing in presenting to their oldest member, Mr. Alexander McGregor, a gold-headed cane on Friday week, accompanied by an address.

A large quantity of lumber has been rafted down the river from Alkali Lake. This lumber was sawed by P. Egan at St. Peter's Springs, and is the best lot of lumber that has ever been cut in this section

A Masonic ball was given by the Mountain Lodge, at the Firemen's Hall, Donald, Oct. 12. The Grand Master of British Columbia, Mr. W. Downie of Vancouver, was present. It was a very successful affair in all respects.

Mr. C. H. Daley, B.A., of Queen's College, Kingston, who during the past summer labored as missionary of the Presbyterian church at Shuswap, Campbell's Creek, Grand Prairie, etc., left Kamloops on the 24th inst. to complete his studies at college.

Rev. J. K. Smith, D.D., who has been supplying the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, Kamloops, for the past two months, will leave town on Monday, 31st October, for the east. Rev. Dr. Smith has accepted the call to the First Presbyterian church, Port Hope, Ontario.

The Sentinel has undoubted authority for stating that the British Columbia Southern Railway, if built over the Gold Range and Hope Mountain, would not be more than 15 miles shorter than the present C.P.R., and that there are eight miles of tunneling through the mountains on that line.

Mr. Samuel Loyd left on Monday for the North Thompson Coal Mine, to take charge of the work there. The company are preparing to bring a quantity of coal to Kamloops on rafts. There are five men employed, and it is expected that the first raft, carrying 10 tons, will arrive next week.

The Canadian Western Ranching Company are constructing a dam at Schiedam Ranch, on Paul Creek. It will be 96 feet long, and will rise the water six feet in a lake three to four miles long and half a mile wide. It will hold the water in the reservoir for use on the company's ranch on the South Thompson, to which it will be conveyed in a ditch which is being dug.

The Freddie Lee mine will ship a thousand, if possible 2000, tons of ore this winter by way of Kaslo. Jim Wardner has thrown the Nakusp route overboard. His animals will be shipped from Nakusp to Kaslo as soon as possible, and he has made large investments in Kaslo real estate. A force of men is now at work building a sleigh road to the Freddie Lee from the end of the Kaslo wagon road.

There are some 25 men working for the Canada Western Ranching Co. A road is being graded from Chum Creek to Canoe Creek, connecting with the road to Clinton. The cost of the road is estimated at $2000 or $3000. This company deserves all success with the gigantic work they intend to accomplish. Their calculation is also to build a large scow at Chum Creek. This will enable them to do their ferrying. As soon as the road is completed, a steam saw mill will be shipped to Gang Ranch.

The people of Nakusp has taken up the wagon road question in earnest. The inhabitants have decided to put their shoulder to the wheel and make the road themselves. It will be a sleigh road. Time will not permit the making of a wagon road this fall. The New Denver people will back them up by putting in a good road from Slocan Lake to the mines. This project was only started a few days ago, but is already fully matured, and the work will be commenced at once so as to have it ready for the shipment of ore before the snow flies.

Lew Campbell's boys, while out on the mountain near Campbell's creek with cattle, found a moose among them. They did not have a gun along, but rode around him and got quite near, having a good opportunity to observe him before he took alarm and trotted away. But the trot was of the kind that could not be overtaken by a running horse, and he was soon lost sight of. The boys could not have been mistaken, for they know the caribou, the only similar animal in the country, and the broad horns and massive shaggy whiskers marked him as a moose.

On Dr. Clarke's arrival at Vernon last Saturday, a coroner's jury was summoned. The evidence was that the body of the man supposed to have been murdered was found by some children in a water hole, part of the head being submerged, and with the throat cut. At a cabin near by, the bunk was found saturated with blood and a bloody razor. Hansen had been seen in Vernon Thursday. His watch, 20 cents, and a check for $53.25 were found. He was about 50 years old. The verdict of the jury was that "he came to his death by cutting his throat with a razor about the 20th October." His life appears to have been insured by relief association in Oregon.]

Mr. Louis Victor Bennett returned a few days ago from his trip to the Mica mines on the Canoe and Fraser rivers. He was gone over two months, the outward journey occupying thirteen days and the inward eight days—the outward taking more time because bridges and roads had to be repaired to enable the pack train to get on safely. Mr. Bennett had a train of 36 horses, pack, saddle and relief, of which he lost two—one drowned and one broke a leg and had to be killed. He left 15 at Tete Jeune Cache to recuperate, in care of Indians. The mica mines are looking well, and assessment work was done on them. Blocks were taken out as large as 2½ feet by 3½ feet, but could not be brought in perfect shape, as they were broken and shaken up on the horses in the journey down. About 1000 pounds of fair samples were packed through to Kamloops.

From the Golden Era.]

On Tuesday, Oct. 18th, a lively meeting of the citizens of Golden took place at the Queen's Hotel, to discuss what steps should be taken to prevent the C. F.R. from fencing up the streets and roads surrounding their property in Golden. With exception of one or two individuals, all those who had any vested interest in the town were present and a very animated discussion took place. The following resolution was unanimously adopted and a copy will be forwarded the Chief Commissioner of Lands and works:

SIR,—The memorial of the undersigned citizens of Golden humbly sheweth.

We are informed that the C.P.R. intend to fence their property in Golden and vicinity, and to include within their fences the highway between Golden and the ranches to the west and certain streets which are shown on the Dominion Government plan and also the approaches to the bridge over the Kicking Horse River as more clearly shewn on the plan we forward herewith.

We would therefore request you to take such action as would secure to the citizens of Golden free and unobstructed use of our streets and road.

The trouble with the Indians at the southern British Columbia boundary is not over yet, as imagined. On the 8th instant, the Indian agent, Mr. Norbury, called a meeting of the tribe, at which Dr. McLoughlin acted as interpreter, with a view to settling any disputes and assessing any damages that may have been or may be done by the Reclamation company. The chief rose and said that he would make no settlement and that the work must stop. Mr. Norbury did his best to pacify him and to come to some understanding, but to no purpose. The Indians were decidedly hostile, though the chief has since expressed sorrow for what took place, and said he would like to meet the Indian agent again and talk matters over.

From the Revelstoke Star.]

The Government trail from Fish Creek to the Northeast Arm is completed.

The Revelstoke postoffice has been removed from its old stand to the Lemon store across the street.

A complimentary supper was given Mr. J. W. Haskins, for many years a noted miner in Kootenay, at Revelstoke last week. All the leading men in the district were present, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A public meeting has been held at Revelstoke station, to consider the policy of the C.P.R., which declines to sell property to buyers who wish to make improvements. The residents are only tenants under lease, and a resolution was passed praying that the land be put on the market for private purchase.

A correspondent of the Star writes a strong letter to that journal protesting against the disparity between two sentences pronounced in the courts there. A white man received a sentence of two years for entering an office and abstracting cash from a desk. A Chinaman suspected of stealing goods, the offence, according to the correspondent, not being proved, gets nine months in jail. The writer says he was formerly prejudiced against the Chinese, but such sentences will soon make him alter his opinion.

Miss Columbia Florence Holliday, if she survives the novelty attending her advent, will be able to boast of having a most uncommon birthplace—on the Columbia river. Mrs. Holliday, who is bound for Edmonton, N.W.T., gave birth to a daughter on board the steamer Columbia, while making the trip between the Upper Arrow Lake and Revelstoke, and when the boat was near or at Hall's Landing. There was a large number of passengers on board, including a lot of immigrants from the States, and the newcomer created quite a sensation. An address was drawn up, to which over 50 signatures were obtained, the Rev. J. C. C. Kemm acting as secretary. Next morning the child was baptized by the Bishop of New Westminster, who was among the passengers. The ceremony was an impressive one, the bishop appearing in full canonicals. The address and a purse of $80 were then presented to the mother, who returned thanks for their great kindness. The address stipulated that the money be invested for the young lady's benefit at the parents' discretion, and that she receive the name of "Columbia" in honor of the ship and the river on which she was born. The unsuspecting infant was accordingly named Columbia Florence. Had it been a boy he would, no doubt, have had to struggle through life under the name of Columbus. Mother and child were conveyed to the C.P.R. hotel. Both doing well.

LET ME GIVE YOU ONE!

Keep away from the "Pull Me Down" Clothing, as you don't know what moths and microbes they conceal. Did you ever get a ready-made suit that gave you satisfaction? Be candid, now! Did you not find the trousers bag at the knees and transform themselves into "HIGH WATER PANTS" inside of four hours? Have you not found the coat getting torn up the back, braid falling off, with several holes in the pockets inside of six hours? Wasn't the vest sewed together with linings that you could "blow peas through?" Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I had myself at one time a suit of those things and "feelingly know how she goes." And when I brought them back and humbly complained about the moths, etc., I was satanically asked if I expected humming birds instead of moths.

How is it that those who sell "turkey stuffin'" of that kind don't take any of their own medicine? Vell, vell! Mine frent! It's because they know better. Twenty-two conclusive proofs of this on hand. I advertise nothing but what I am prepared to back up.

NO. 173.

A BY-LAW

TO ENABLE the Corporation of the City of Victoria to borrow the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars for the purposes therein set forth.

Whereas it is necessary that the streets and sidewalks should be maintained and bridges improved and constructed, and whereas an insufficient sum of the present year's unexpended revenue is at this time available for such work, it is therefore deemed expedient to raise a sum of money for the above purposes.

And whereas for the purposes aforesaid it is intended to raise by way of loan upon the credit of the city the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

And whereas it will require the sum of $1,289.00 to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of the debt and interest as hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said Corporation of the City of Victoria according to the revised assessment roll, for the year 1891, was $17,563,148.

And whereas it will require an annual special rate of 3-40th of a mill in the dollar for the payment of the interest and the creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the principal of the said interest debt, according to the Municipal Act, 1892.

And whereas it is intended to reduce the general rate so that the said Special rate shall not increase the total rate of taxation.

Be it therefore enacted by the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

SECTION 1.—It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Victoria to borrow upon the credit of the said Corporation, by way of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate who may be willing to advance the same as a loan, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $25,000.00 currency, or sterling money at the rate of $4.86 2-3rds dollars to the one pound sterling, and to cause all such sums so raised or received to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said Corporation for the purpose and with the object hereinbefore recited.

SECTION 2.—It shall be lawful for the said Mayor to cause any number of debentures to be made for such sums as may be required, not exceeding, however, the sum of $25,000.00 either in currency or sterling money (at the rate of $4.86 2-3 dollars to the one pound sterling) as may be required, each of the said debentures being of the amount of $1,000 or its sterling equivalent at the rate aforesaid, and all such debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor thereof.

SEC. (3).—The said debentures shall be made payable in fifty years from the date hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Corporation in the City Hall, Victoria, and shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of interest, and the signature of the Mayor or of the Clerk of the Corporation respectively to the coupons may be affixed by printed, stamped or lithographed fac simile.

SECTION 4.—The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly at the office of the said Treasurer.

SEC. (5). For the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures and the interest to become due thereon, an equal special rate of 3-40ths of a mill in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be levied and collected in each year upon all rateable property within the City of Victoria during the continuance of the said debentures or any of them.

SECTION 6.—This By-law shall before the final passage thereof receive the assent of the electors of the said Corporation in the manner provided for by the Municipal Act, 1892, and shall take effect on the 14th day of October, 1892.

SECTION 7.—This By-law may be cited as the "Street Loan By-Law, 1892."

Passed the Municipal Council this 28th day of September, 1892.

Received the assent of and confirmed by the Municipal Electors on the 11th day of October, 1892.

Reconsidered, adopted and finally passed the Municipal Council on the 12th day of October, A.D. 1892.

THE NAKUSP INJUSTICE.

Some of our inland contemporaries make severe reflections on the failure of the Government to construct the projected wagon road from Nakusp to New Denver. It is to be gathered from their comments that the Government now puts forward as an excuse its inability to proceed with the work without a special vote from the Legislature. Following is a reference to the subject made in the last number of the Nelson Miner:

The Nakusp wagon road is absolutely dead. It is said that the Government expressed itself as being unable to spend so large a sum as would have been needed to put this job through without first asking the consent of the House, and having an appropriation voted for it. Rats. It is said that the C.P.R. offered to put up one-third of the cost of a snow road from Nakusp to the head of Slocan Lake if the Government would defray the rest of the expense. Declined without thanks.

The Kamloops Sentinel deals with the matter at length, and it seems worth while to reproduce most of its remarks, since they give a clear summing up of the whole business. The Sentinel says:—

In July last, the Government placed a portion of the townsite of New Denver on the market, and sold by auction lots aggregating about $28,000. Purchasers bought upon the faith of the townsite being owned and held by the Government, and inferred—naturally too—that the influence and support of the Government would be directed towards building up a town of their own creation. Were it not for this fact, local business men would not have paid as high as $600 for a lot 50x120.

They also believed that the Government with the assistance offered by the C.P.R., would construct a cheap wagon road, that would enable mine owners to haul their ore during the fall and coming winter. Now, what has been done? If we are correctly informed, the Government has transferred the unsold portion of the New Denver townsite to private parties. They called for tenders for the construction of a wagon road, but failed to instruct the engineer as to the class of road required, and then so far as we are aware allowed the matter to drop. We hold that the people of New Denver have a just claim to a considerable portion of the money realized from the sale of their townsite being expended upon a wagon road to give them communication with the outside world. Without a wagon road there will be no town, and their lots will not be worth as many cents as they cost dollars.

The people of New Denver feel, that as well as having a strong claim upon the Government, the money could not be more profitably employed, in the interests of the whole province, than in giving this outlet to the Slocan mines. It is true that there is not legislative authority for this expenditure, but ministers have frequently gone to the Legislature to be indemnified for payments made under Lieut.-Governor's warrants, where there was not the urgency that existed in this case. For weeks, miners waited for an assurance that the road would be built with the intention of laying in supplies, working all winter, and hauling ore on the snow. We are confident that we are within the mark in asserting that at least five thousand tons of ore would be hauled to Nakusp before next March, had a sleigh road been commenced in time. It is admitted on all sides that on this question the Government have made a serious mistake, and through their inaction have retarded the opening up and development of many of the best prospects in the Slocan. With a sleigh road, the Slocan country would be as far advanced in the spring, as we can now hope to see it this time next year, and in addition the province would secure the trade, whereas there is a danger of its going to the south.

In this connection we are surprised at the apathy shown by the merchants of Victoria and Vancouver. Do they know that the Americans are making a determined effort to secure the trade of Slocan? Do they realize that, in all probability, 80 per cent. of the ore hauled to Kootenay Lake will go to Great Falls, or other American smelters for treatment, and that general trade and travel will follow the channel in which the ores are carried. Nelson and Nakusp have hitherto been good customers of Victoria and Vancouver, but if the ore of the country is allowed to go to Bonner's Ferry, we will soon see Idaho and Montana merchants controlling the trade of Slocan.

We are glad to learn that the residents of Nakusp and New Denver are taking action, and intend to push through a sleigh road. It is a pity this effort was not put forth a month ago, as many of the mines are now closed down for the winter, and the few that will ship ore will send it to Kootenay Lake.

It is something new to find the Provincial Government so very careful about securing legislative authority for an expenditure of this kind. But assuming that it is right in refusing to undertake the work without special authority from the Legislature, the Government cannot then be acquitted of bad faith and blundering. Did the Government learn of its lack of power only after the sale of New Denver lots? If so it blundered most atrociously. Is it not the fact that while the Legislature was in session there was every reason why the Government should expect on the one hand large contributions to the revenue from West Kootenay and on the other calls for extra expenditures to open up the district? The Government made very little concealment of its motive in cutting down to starvation point the appropriation for works in West Kootenay. It was actuated by a desire to take revenge on the representative of the district, who could not see his way to giving it his support. But for this immoral and in every way reprehensible scheme the Government could easily have been in a position to keep faith with the people who bought its town lots and to do justice to the district generally. In this case it seems to have carried the "reward and punishment" plan a little too far, and we have no doubt the weapon which it hurled at Mr. Kellie will prove a self-injuring boomerang.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

L'Abbe Dugas, the patriotic pries who has seen with sorrow so many of the French-Canadians leaving Quebec for the States, is now reported to have said that the annexation of Canada to the States is only a question of time unless something is done to stop the exodus. He suggests that his people be furnished with means to enable them to settle in the Canadian Northwest. If the Abbe were to reason with the Dominion Government against their policy of taxing the people so heavily he might be pursuing a better way towards his object.

The Colonist would have us believe that it was doing the Mayor a service when it refrained from publishing a report of the discussion between him and the Chief Justice on Friday. No doubt it was out of kindly consideration for the Mayor that our neighbor omitted, for instance, to report that remark of the Chief Justice: "He had pointed out yesterday that the reporter had made a very mischievous error." Here is another sentence which the Colonist's love for the Mayor led it to suppress: "The Chief Justice said he had not repudiated the words contained in the article, but the meaning that had been attached to them by the writer." This remark referred to the Colonist's cooked report of Wednesday's proceedings, and our neighbor of course had no other object in ignoring it than to oblige the Mayor. Perhaps it was for the same reason that it failed to report that other little speech of the Chief Justice on the previous day, but an ordinary person would hardly come to that conclusion without some assistance.

FEARS THE HIGHBINDERS.

A Chinaman Who Has Had Unpleasantly Close Relations With Them.

Chun Sun, the imprisoned Celestial, has again materalized. Sun tells the following tale: "Two o'clock Friday evening two Chinamen, named Ham Mow and Eng Yow, came to my cabin on Cormorant street, opposite the police station. They told me to get up and dress at once. I refused. They said that if I did not go quietly they would take me. I asked them where they were going to take me. They said to the headquarters of the Highbinders. When I got to the Highbinders' hall they threatened to do me harm if I did not join the society. I was a member when I was in 'Frisco. They askek me for my certificate and wanted to know why I did not report before. They told me if I went back upon the society, it would be hot for me. They then made me promise to join the society in Victoria and afterwards liberated me."

This is the tale of the imprisoned man. The Chinaman who told the police that Chun Sun was imprisoned says that Chun Sun had only half told the truth. Chun is said to be in fear of the highbinders. Chief of Police Sheppard was asked for particulars of the affair. His reply, though not in rounded periods did not leave doubt as to his opinion. "I told you before the man was never imprisoned. Don't ask me again. I don't believe the tale."

Medical Council Meeting.

The British Columbia Medical Council met on Saturday evening, the members from the different cities of the province being present. The object of the meeting was to discuss rules and regulations, especially those referring to registration. Dr. Metherell's case and a similar one that is to come up shortly, were also discussed. It was finally decided to refer the question to the Council's legal advisers.

A SUBSTANTIAL REWARD.

Two Respectable Chinamen Make a Tempting Offer for Information.

Mong Kow and Lui Wing have offered a reward of $300 for information that will lead to the arrest of the person who posted a document written in Chinese on the Chinese bulletin board in Chinatown. The document has been referred to in the TIMES. It is said to have been signed by the persons who offer the reward. The document calls for the killing of Charles Sing and Ah Wing, the Chinese interpreters, for the part they took in the Chinese lottery cases, and offers $1500 as blood money for procuring their death, with assurance that the murderer will not get into the hands of the police.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

General Meeting To-Night—A Full Attendance Desirable.

There should be a large attendance of members of the British Columbia Agricultural Society at the general meeting in the City Hall to-night. The meeting is called to close the business of the past year, and to take stock of the future. The financial statement of the treasurer, and reports from the president, secretary and superintendent will be presented, and no doubt will form subjects for interesting discussions. The society, since Westminster dissolved the partnership, has undoubtedly prospered, and it has been successfully demonstrated that a first-class exhibition can be held yearly in Victoria. But in purchasing land and erecting buildings, a very large sum of money has been expended, and the society is in debt. As ways and means must be devised to meet the obligation, every member ought to take a personal interest in the business, instead of as at present allowing half a dozen directors to shoulder all the responsibility. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

FAREWELL TO THE PASTOR

Calvary Baptist Church Regret to Lose Rev. Mr. Baldwin.

Yesterday closed the labors of Rev. Thos. Baldwin, of Seattle, at Calvary Baptist Church, Herald street. Large congregations greeted the reverend gentleman both morning and evening. For six weeks he has ministered to this church with increasing acceptance, many former adherents having returned to their accustomed places, whilst many new faces have been seen. Mr. Baldwin has long been noted upon this coast as one of the ablest expositors of the scriptures in the Baptist denomination, and this, added to his vigorous eloquence and long experience, has made him a tower of strength amongst his own people. He has in a great measure relinquished the work of the pastorate, and intends prosecuting evangelistic work where requested in the districts of British Columbia and western Washington. Last evening at the usual service the reverend gentleman freely referred to the warm friendships he had formed during his stay here, to the fidelity of the church and congregation to him and to the many pleasant reminiscences he would carry away with him.

On behalf of the officers of the church and members of the congregation, Mr. W. Marchant responded. He referred to the good work done by Mr. Baldwin since he came, to the cordial relationship that had existed and to the perfect loyalty to the new pastor, the church, and the work with which Mr. Baldwin's stay had been signalized, and concluded by moving the following resolution:

"That the congregation assembled in Calvary Baptist church, Victoria, do hereby acknowledge the pleasure and edification received from the ministry of our brother, Rev. T. Baldwin, during his stay among us. We rejoice in his faithful and untiring work, his clear and forcible exposition of divine truth, and pray that the choicest blessings of the Triune Jehovah may rest upon him in his future sphere of labor."

The congregation by a standing vote testified their approval of the resolution, and the service closed with the benediction. The new minister, Rev. J. E. Coombes, will commence his work next Sunday, preaching both morning and evening.

Hallow E'en.

This is Hallow e'en, the night over which Burns cast the glamour of his genius and celebrated in imperishable song. To-night, of all nights in the year, the Scot feels the soul within him burn as the memory of former Hallow e'ens "comes rolling fresh en Fancy's eye," and he almost hears the "laching an' the daffin' 'roon the ingle neuk." The Scotsman who has never participated in the simple merriment of a Scottish Hallow e'en must be a sumph, such as that immortal lilt, "Tullochgorum" describes so cantily. And the Scotsman who has become so high and mighty as to disdain such things upon the 31st of October must be such a wretch as Scott mentions in his much quoted poem beginning, "Lives there a man," etc. Fortunately such unnatural members of John Tamson's great family are very scarce. To-morrow evening Sir William Society will celebrate this national "fest" in proper style, it being found impossible to do so this evening. A splendid Scottish concert will be given, in which some of the city's finest singers will take part. The tickets have been put at a very moderate figure, twenty-five cents, and every Scot in the city is expected to foregather in Wallace Hall and have a royal time listening to the peerless lyrical gems of auld Scotland.

A FAST AND PLEASANT TRIP.

The Empress of Japan Breaks the C.P.R. Steamers' Record From Land to Land.

The Quarantine Doctor Has a Rough Time Trying to Board the Steamer.

The Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of India, which arrived here yesterday afternoon from China and Japan made the best run from land to land on record among the C.P.R. steamers, and would have broken the record from port to port had it not been for the fog. She had a splendid trip across, and when nearing the Cape everybody aboard were happy over the prospects of being on board a record breaker. Their hopes suddenly sank, however, when the vessel became enveloped in fog. She had to lie to for several hours, and instead of arriving on Saturday evening as Captain Lee expected, she did not arrive until 3 yesterday afternoon. The wind was blowing a hurricane at the time and the quarantine steamer Earl, which went out to meet the Empress, was tossed around like a cork, and enveloped in clouds of spray. For several hours the little steamer tried to get alongside the Empress, but without success, and finally they had to go to Royal Roads, where the doctor boarded the steamship and completed his inspection. The Victoria passengers and mail were then transferred to the steamer Yosemite and brought to the city, the Empress proceeding to Vancouver. There were several first-class and 100 Chinese passengers for Victoria. She also has 100 tons of freight for this port.

The passengers were:—

First Saloon—Capt. and Mrs. A. J. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Brearley, Mr. Belfield, Mr. J. S. Bradstreet, Mr. L. Berindoague, Mr. A. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliman, Mr. A. Fleet, Mr. A. L. Farrell, Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Gould and child, Mr. Hoffman, Dr. and Mrs. Isham, Mr. Llewellen, Mr. B. Muriaus, Mr. W. A. Morling, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Matsubara, Mr. Maas, Miss Morgan, Mr. T. B. Marston, Mr. C. Overbeck, Mr. H. H. Porter, jr., Miss Parsons, Mrs. Paterson, Miss Paterson, Professor Raymond, Miss Reid, Mr. Shimidzu, Miss Shoults, Mr. and Mrs. Sequah and two children, Mr. A. M. Thompson, Mr. Urhlaub and two servants, Mr. Woodin, Mr. Raymond.

Second Saloon—Mrs. J. Sharman, Miss Schloge, Captain and Mrs. R. N. Walker and eight children, Mr. Wilson.

Kwong Yuen, of the Hip Lung Company, and King Tye's manager, who have been on a visit to China, came home by the Empress.

A large number of the first cabin passengers remained here and were to day visiting the principal points of interest around the city.

Alex. Campbell and A. Sleet, both Shanghai business men, are registered at the Driard.

At the Dallas there are H. Percy Hodges of Dublin, W. W. Fish, Mrs. Fish, Master Fish, and H. R. Loring of Elmira, U.S.A.; Mr. and Mrs. Elliman and Miss Schultz, of Plymouth, Eng.; Prof. Geo. L. Raymond and son, of Princeton; Dr. G. S. Isham, Mrs. Isham, H. H. Porter, jr., Arthur L. Farwell and Thos. B. Marston, of Chicago; and Miss E. C. Parsons, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Fish and party left Victoria about two months ago, intending to go around the world, but Mrs. Fish's health would not permit them. They, therefore, satisfied themselves with spending five weeks in Japan. It is a very pretty place, said Mr. Fish, but the scenery does not compare with the American scenery. He was, however, interested in the habits of the Japanese. They are now introducing machinery in their factories and in every way they are becoming civilized.

Supreme Court.

The case of McPherson vs. Cowan & Shaw was adjourned to Nov. 7.

The case of Williams vs. Spencer, the action being the culmination of disputes that arose last spring among the "colonists" of Malcolm Island, was set down for trial to-day before a judge without a jury. The litigants, however, made an amicable settlement of their differences this morning, Mr. Spencer agreeing to pay Mr. Williams $50 and also the receiver's expenses (amounting to $25 a month), and Mr. Williams agreeing to hand over the property to Mr. Spencer.

The Rosie Olsen Returns.

The schooner Rosie Olsen is home after an eventful trip, the particulars of which have already been related in the TIMES. She was seized by the Russians, who renamed her the Prize and gave her to Captain Copp, of Vancouver, who took her to that port. After a little litigation the customs authorities ordered her to be returned to her Victoria owners. This was done on Saturday, when Captain Keefe went up to Vancouver and took charge of her. She was immediately handed over by the collector of customs and yesterday came into port in tow of the tug Tepic.

For San Francisco.

The steamer Umatilla, which sailed for San Francisco yesterday morning, had on board 140 passengers. Her cabin passengers from Victoria were: Mrs. H. O'Brien and children, Mrs. H. H. Field and son, and Jas. Lamont. She took as freight from Victoria 265 bales of salt hides and 120 bales of dry hides.

After Big Spars.

Mr. Thos. Bentley, of Halifax, a well-known spar maker, is in the city, renewing old acquaintances among the sealing men. The object of his trip to British Columbia was to purchase a number of large spars. This he did by purchasing a cargo from the Hastings saw mill.

The sewerage commissioners will have their report on the sewerage system ready for the meeting of the council on Wednesday night. The question will no doubt be disposed of at the Wednesday night meeting.

A Coal War.

The coal dealers of the city are waging war on each other and one man has the price down to $5.50 per ton. It is hard to say where the war will end, but in the meantime it is generally considered not a bad idea to lay in a winter's supply.

Coal at $5.50 for Cash.

An Old Friend.

Word has been received from the publishers of the Canadian Almanac, of some important additions to be made to its forty-sixth annual issue to be published next month. Besides the valuable matter, so familiar to our readers, it will contain an Ontario Law List, a list of Notaries in Quebec and some interesting articles on new subjects. A graphic description of Montreal will be given together with a fine map of the City.

Youthful Robbers.

Two boys were arrested Sunday by Sergt. Leven charged with being in possession of stolen property. They live in the same cabin on Humboldt street with a boy who is charged with the theft of a watch. This boy has "skipped." Another lad is also in jail; he had the stolen watch in his possession, but says he bought it from the person who stole it. The trial of the culprits will take place before Magistrate Macrae to-morrow morning.

New Lodge K. of P.

Grand Chancellor J. M. Hughes, D.D., Wm. Duck, of Far West, and D. Johnson, of Sunset Lodge, went up to Duncans Station for the purpose of forming a new lodge of K. of P. There was a very good meeting, at which 52 of the most prominent men around Duncans signified their intention of becoming members, a very good showing for a small place. The G. C. and his officers will go up in about three or four weeks to institute the lodge, which will be called Maple Lodge, No. 15.

McFee of Dublin.

At the Victoria Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings John T. Kelly and his excellent company of comedians will present for the first time here his new comedy "McFee of Dublin." The new piece has made a distinct hit wherever it has been seen, and as Lord McFee, Kelly has the best chance of his professional career to display his abilities as a fun maker. Unlike most comedies of the present day, McFee of Dublin has an interesting and well-told story. The complications and situations are funny and original, and the specialties introduced are a part of the action of the piece. Mr. Kelly's company is one of the best ever organized for the road, including Florrie West, an excellent soubrette, who will introduce her clever singing and dancing. Adelaide Randall, the popular prima donna; Harry Kelly, who is one of the brightest young comedians on the stage. New and elaborate scenery and costumes have been prepared for the production.

Fresh Yeast.

We are pleased to tell the inhabitants of Victoria that we have just received a loaf of bread of splendid texture and sweetness, baked in the oven of an ordinary kitchen range, made with Stannard's Compressed Yeast, which is made in Victoria and will supply a long felt want. There has not been until now any yeast on this market that is always certain and easily and quickly used. Stannard's Compressed Yeast comprises each of these qualifications; it has also the advantage over any other compressed yeast that while they (when used in excess) impart an unpleasant flavor to the bread, the larger the proportion of Stannard's Compressed Yeast that is used in a loaf the sweeter it becomes. It is supplied to the grocers fresh daily and so that the public may always know that it is fresh the label upon it is stamped with the date upon which it is made. Then we are told and in belief upon good authority that it is impossible to spoil a batch of bread if the directions are followed that are printed upon the label. We know it is already used by some of the best families here and by at least one of the bakers, therefore we shall expect to see this new industry flourish amongst us. Ask your grocer for it; he has it for sale. m-w-f

SEIZED SEALERS RETURN.

The Crews of the Schooners Maria and Carmolite Arrive Home Yesterday.

Three British Men of War Will Enquire Into the Russian Seizures.

The captains and men of the sealing schooners Maria and Carmolite, seized by the Russians in August, arrived home on the Empress of Japan yesterday. The men do not look very badly damaged after the knocking around that they have had, nevertheless they would have felt more comfortable if they had been left alone.

The schooner Carmolite was seized on the 28th of August by the Russian cruiser Vetiez. At that time she was 25 miles south of Copper Island, having just returned from a trip around the island. She had 608 skins, which were seized with the schooner and outfit.

The captain of the Vetiez overhauled Captain Hughes' papers, and then stated that he would have to seize the schooner. When questioned as to his right to do so, the Russian answered that he would seize the schooner if she was 200 miles out to sea. The reason he gave for the seizure was that the schooner was sealing in Russian waters.

Captain Hughes and his crew were placed on board the cruiser and a prize crew took charge of the schooner. The cruiser proceeded to Petropaulovsky, followed by the schooner.

"We were treated very well on board the cruiser," said Captain Hughes, "but when on shore the Russians did not look after us very well."

The captain and men were kept at Petropaulovsky for five days. They were allowed 7½ cents a day for food, but had to find their own lodging. Some of the men slept on the beach the first night.

Captain Balcan and the crew of the schooner Maria were at Petropaulovsky when the Carmolite's crew arrived. There were 23 men from the Carmolite and 25 from the Maria. They were all taken on board the Vetiez, which proceeded to Vladivostock, calling at several Siberian convict stations on the way. The trip lasted 17 days. The men were kept at Vladivostock for eight days, being allowed 25 cents a day, out of which they had to supply themselves with board and lodging. Although this was three times as much as they received at Petropaulovsky, it did not leave them a very heavy balance after they had obtained their breakfast.

After the men had been at Vladivostock for eight days, a mail steamer called and took them to Nagasaki. Here they were handed over to the British consul who treated them very well, but asked them to sign a paper stating that if the owners of the schooners refused to pay their expenses since their arrival at Nagasaki, they, the men, would do so themselves. This Captain Hughes refused to do and the matter was therefore dropped. The men waited at Nagasaki for the Empress of Japan, on which they came home.

ENGLAND BECOMING INTERESTED.

At Yokohama, where the Empress called, H.M.S. Leander was waiting. The commander of the British ship sent for Captains Hughes and Balcan and took their statements. He told them that he was expecting orders to go to Vladivostock and enquire into Russia's actions regarding the sealers. He also stated that two British men-of-war had left Hongkong on a similar mission.

This was good news for the sealers, as they are certain now that the seizures are not going to be passed over unnoticed.

"Considering the small amount, 75 cents a day, allowed to British steamers for bringing distressed sailors home, we were treated very well on board the Empress," said Captain Hughes. The officers of the steamer allowed the captains and officers of the schooners the use of their rooms during the trip.

"I might have been saved all the trouble I have experienced," continued the captain, "if I had had an old hunter in my weather boat. The man I had there was a green hand from Seattle. Therefore, when the bark Majestic passed the boat with the crews of the Rosie Olsen, Willie McGowan and Ariel on board, the hunter took no notice of her signals. If he had done so and gone alongside the bark he would have heard of the Russian seizures, and the schooner could have been kept out of the way of the cruisers."

SEIZURE OF THE MARIA.

The schooner Maria was seized just a week before the Carmolite. It was on the 21st of August that the Russian fur company's steamer Koptic came alongside of the Maria. The Governor of Copper Island was on board the steamer and he seized the schooner although she was over 19 miles northeast of Copper Island. She had 627 skins at the time, which, with the schooner and outfit were seized. The captain and crew were taken to Petrapoulovsky, where they were joined by the men from the Carmolite. From that time until their arrival home they underwent similar experiences to those related by Captain Hughes.

Home on a Visit.

Alex. Howie left last evening for a visit to his old home in Scotland, and Robert Garvin to visit his old home in Ireland. They go east over the Northern Pacific Railway and will be in New York for the election a week from to-morrow. There is not a doubt that if they got into the right hands they can have a vote. Anybody can who so wishes in the glorious Republic across the line where soap and hard cash are equivalents when used in combination.

The Danube at Nanaimo.

The steamer Danube arrived at Nanaimo this morning from the north and will be here this evening. She went up to Bella Coola for a surveying party, which detained them for two days. Mr. S. A. Spencer of Alert Bay came down on the Danube as far as Nanaimo and then took the train for Victoria. The steamer Caledonia, he says, was not on a sand bar, but was just anchored in the river waiting for the water to rise She is now at Fort Simpson.

THE MINSTREL.

He thought he once could sing
A song of love and spring,
But stammered, though he held a full-strung lyre;
Because he lacked the art
Which later years impart;
Because the skill was less than the desire.

And now he seems to know
Just how the tune should flow,
But misses the young ardor once so strong.
The impulse of the heart
Is slower than the art;
The skill to sing is better than the song.

The sobering touch of time
Holds back the hasty rhyme
That in the heat of youth once spurned control;
For snared in webs of thought
His flying dreams are caught;
Age looks beyond the senses to the soul.

Ah, could the singer's art
Assume the loftier part
As once the lowlier in the realm of song!
Ah, could life's grander themes
Flow like the early streams
What minstrel then would say he had lived too long?

—Christopher P. Cranch, in Harper's Magazine.

"DEAR OLD FRIENDS."

Delight and Astonishment of an Unexpected Meeting.

I had just come out of the post-office when I caught sight of a face that seemed familiar to me.

It was that of a man about my own age, with bronzed features and a somewhat attenuated figure.

As I was trying to recall when and where I had seen him before our eyes met. I immediately perceived that our recognition had been mutual, for he came toward me with a frank expression of pleasure and held out his hand, saying:

"Helloa, old fellow, who'd have thought of seeing you here?" I don't know why he said this, and of course, I don't attempt to defend it; but it is a style of address affected by some men who are as profoundly astonished if they meet you in a restaurant as if they had run across you in the mines of Siberia. I felt a little bit annoyed at his want of originality; however, I smiled pleasantly, and said, as I shook hands:

"Well, if you come to that, old fellow, who'd have thought of seeing you here?"

We stood opposite each other for a few seconds, I simpering somewhat emptily at the nature of our greeting, and struggling to recall his name; and he, with his head slightly on one side, and an expression of courteously suppressed amusement on his face, as if my presence on the steps of the post-office was one of those inexplicable freaks of chance for which it is hopeless to seek to assign any reasonable law.

I gave him a few seconds to digest his astonishment, and then, feeling that the silence was becoming a little embarrassing, I said, inconsequently:

"Well, what have you been doing all this time?"

"Well," he replied, "I've been in Australia."

"Oh, ah!" I ejaculated, as if it had for a moment slipped my memory: "why, you went there"—and I hesitated, as though calculating within myself the exact day of his unknown departure—

"Three years ago," he put in shortly, "and quite long enough it is, too."

I ran over in my mind my acquaintances of three years ago, but could recall no trace of a recollection of my new companion; so, to gain time and to gather fresh information, I asked:

"And what sort of a time have you had?"

"Oh, much about the same as before," he answered, with a slightly puzzled air.

I candidly admit that the sensible thing for me to have done would have been to own up and admit that I had forgotten my friend's personality. Unfortunately, I am one of those painfully constituted people who shrink with nervous horror from any thing in the nature of an explanation, and, in addition, I felt that I had gone too far to cry off without some appearance of insincerity. Besides, he seemed to congratulate himself so warmly upon what he insisted upon looking on as our providential meeting, that my lips were sealed, and I felt confirmed in the idea that if I let things slide a little longer, his name would recur to my mind.

He had slipped his arm through mine as we walked up-town with an easy sense of good-fellowship, and said: "Of course you'll dine with me this evening. Now, don't say you are engaged," he added, as I hesitated for an instant between my desire to have more of my companion and my disinclination to dine under false pretenses; "you know they'll be awfully disappointed if they hear I have met you and let you off without a long talk, and I join them to-morrow."

I felt constrained to consent against my better judgment and added, in a playfully solicitous manner:

"And how are they all?"

"Oh, they are all tip-top—all except the Colonel;" after a pause and with a slightly subdued air—"I don't think he has ever quite got over that affair."

"Ah," I rejoined, shaking my head sympathetically, "one doesn't get over that sort of thing in a day, you know; but the others?"

"What others?" he said, bluntly.

I hesitated, and rejoined, vaguely: "Were there not some others?"

He pondered heavily for a few seconds before replying: "Yes, I believe there were some others, but they made no difference."

I was just murmuring: "Very likely not," when he turned to me abruptly and said: "I hope you don't think he came badly out of that business?"

His hand seemed to relax its pressure on my arm, as if he was preparing himself for some censure or act of coldness on my part.

I felt touched by this little proof of his sensitiveness to my good opinion, and pressed his fingers as I rejoined, warmly: "I never, never heard any one speak otherwise than highly of his conduct in the matter."

He stopped and said, shortly:

"Why, who knows any thing about it? I thought you and I had it all to ourselves."

"Yes, yes;" I faltered, and added, "you know you have been away for some time, old fellow."

It did not seem to fit in very well; but he accepted it as an argument, and said:

"There is something in that, but don't let people talk about it. I know he relies upon you and me."

There was something so touching in the reliance of this unknown, that a glow of sympathetic affection warmed my heart, and I resolved on the spot that his confidence should not be misplaced. Come what might, the secret of that old man's life should never be betrayed by me. Others might make it a subject of club gossip or tea-table tittle-tattle, but no word of mine should add one drop to the cup of bitterness that had been placed at his lips. There are passages in the lives of all of us which we would wish to have buried in oblivion—the thoughtless follies of youth, the unworthy ambitions of manhood, and the selfish jealousies of old age; who is there that can stand up and say there is no episode in his life he would not have expunged, forgotten or condoned?

We had turned into a restaurant for a bit of dinner, and those thoughts passed through my mind as we ate our fish. My companion pondered sadly for a few seconds, and then, shaking himself together as though to throw off an unpleasant train of thought, said:

"Now, tell me about yourself, your wife and family."

Before I had time to reflect upon what might be the result of my disclosure, I blurted out the simple truth:

"I have no wife."

He looked intensely surprised, as he said: "My dear fellow, I am very sorry. I never heard"— He paused, inquiringly, and again I blurted out:

"I never had one."

A look of extreme pain spread over his face as he heard this. He leaned across the table, and laying his hand on mine, said, with infinite sympathy: "I see it all; I ought not to have asked you. Forgive me, old fellow, and forget that I have said these words."

I gave him a clammy hand and turned away, lest he should detect the conscious guiltiness of my face. I had become confirmed in a suspicion that had been gradually dawning upon my mind, that I had never set eyes upon my host before that day, and that I had been carried away by some inexplicable chance resemblance to some remote acquaintance, and by his own apparent cordial recognition of myself. There was no blinking the facts, however. Everybody that he mentioned was a total stranger to me, while every incident that I mentioned with a view to drawing him out seemed to find his mind a blank. My sole object now was to extricate myself from my false position without detection. I got absolutely and hopelessly involved in fable and falsehood, and after having thus lightly taken away the good name of the supposititious mother of my children, a sort of despair took possession of me, and a wild desire to avoid exposure or explanation at any cost.

The dinner was good, the wine excellent, and my host geniality itself. We sat late and drank freely, and over our cups I blush to think of the people I married, the old friends I buried and the characters I took away. But he would have news, and what was I to do? Much of my information seemed to afford him matter for astonishment, and often he ejaculated:

"You don't tell me so," as I conveyed some specially startling piece of personal news.

However, the time for departure came at last, and my mind was torn with conflicting desires to escape detection and to ascertain his identity.

"You'll come and see us," he said cordially, as we shook hands preliminary to leaving.

"Yes, certainly," I replied; "but where are you putting up now?"

"Oh, the same old quarters," he returned.

"What is the best way to get there?" I asked, as a last and altogether desperate hope.

"You can't do better than take a cab," he said; and we parted never to meet again.—St. James' Gazette.

WRONGHEADED PEOPLE.

Those with Whom It Is Difficult to Get Along.

Among the most unpleasant people one is compelled to rub shoulders with on life's highway are the class whose minds take hold of every thing, as it were, the wrong end foremost. They are usually as obstinate as perverse, and the false inferences they draw from misapprehended premises they adhere to with as much tenacity as if they were Gospel truths. One knows not how to deal with such incorrigibles. Good-humored rallying they are as likely as not to mistake for studied insult, kind words for humbug, endeavors to instruct and convince for airs of superiority; and whatever one may do or say with a view of benefiting them, they mistake for insidious attempts to get on their blind side. Their field of moral vision is filled with a mist of suspicion which distorts every thing, and it is in vain to reason with them; for you can no more do away with their absurd impressions than you can wipe out graven letters with a sponge. Error, we suppose, is to them what truth is to right-headed men and women, and they cling to it because they believe in it. They are objects of commiseration; yet, being unabatable nuisances, it is prudent to give them a wide berth.

It is really a sad thing to be predisposed by nature to misconceive and misconstrue; but it is equally unpleasant to be misunderstood and misconstrued. We, therefore, make it a rule to have as little as possible to do with inveterately wrongheaded people.—N. Y. Ledger.

MILWAUKEE'S MAMMOTH FIRE.

Splendid Subscription List Being Taken Up for the Sufferers.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 29.—When Manager A. L. Chase, of the Plankington House, learned of the dire distress prevailing among the homeless Third Ward people, he circulated about in the suffering throngs and offered the free hospitality of his hostelry to alleviate their wants. Last night he sheltered 200 homeless ones. He and his chief clerk, Mr. Walsh, further directed a corps of assistants to furnish the police and the fire department force with hot coffee and food.

All the homeless ones will be given free fare until quarters are provided for them. President B. M. Weil, of the Real Estate Board, gave notice last night that the rooms of the Board would be thrown open for the accommodation of the unfortunate business men, and Mr. Weil said, if it was necessary, they could remain until spring.

The work to-day is one of relief and devising plans to succor the unfortunate people who lost their homes by the fire. The churches and public buildings have been thrown open to accommodate them temporarily, while every society and organization in the city is maturing plans for immediate relief.

The Democratic candidate on the Congressional county ticket, started a subscription last night, while the fire was yet raging, with a cash contribution of $5000. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a general relief committee was organized this morning to forward the work. Before even the committee was appointed several subscriptions of $1000 were made. A telegram from P. D. Armour, of Chicago, announced his subscription as $5000, and $500 subscriptions and others for smaller sums were added to the whole, making a handsome sum. The brewers association contributed another $5000 and the morning subscriptions reached about $40,000. Several pastors have pledged their collections in the churches to-morrow morning to the relief fund, and as the movement appears to be general, a handsome addition to the fund will probably be realized.

The Journal of this city has suggested that as the church organizations reached the largest number of people in the quickest way, each organization make plans for an entertainment of some kind and devote the proceeds to the relief fund. It is estimated that 600 families were burned out, and that at least 1500 individuals are homeless.

As most of the buildings, tenements and dwellings were uninsured, these people have lost everything and are destitute. The business district devastated is an important one, embracing many heavy wholesale houses. The estimated building loss is about $5,000,000, but with insurance about $3,000,000.

Inquiries made in London show that English insurance companies will suffer severely by the fire in Milwaukee. The London and Liverpool, and Globe and the London and Lancashire Companies will be the heaviest losers. Details of the fire are anxiously awaited here.

Disliked Schoolcraft of Any Kind.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Oliver John Schoolcraft, of New York, offered a petition in the Admiralty Division today, before Justice Jean, for a divorce from his wife. Schoolcraft is from New York. He came to England in 1880 to study theology, and also began to study the charms of Eliza Beauchamp, a young woman of the class which Cream set out to exterminate with strychnine pills. Eliza made such an impression on him that, although he was aware of the indiscriminate tendency of her affections, he concluded to win her for himself, and was married to her on the Isle of Jersey in 1881. While pursuing his studies at Heidelberg, Oliver placed his wife in a school with the view of having her properly trained for her new station in life. Eliza did not take kindly to syntax and vulgar fractions and the next thing that the youthful American heard about his better or worse half, was that she had taken flight to Berlin. Still wrapped up in her charms and anxious to reclaim her, Oliver hastened to Berlin where he found his wife having a lively time with the sports of that capital. He induced her to come back with a promise of reform, and for a time they dwelt together like turtle doves. This halcyon period did not last long, and Eliza again disappeared. Her husband led her erring feet back to virtue's path and once more she promised to be honest and true. Again was the promise broken, and when at length she fled to Chicago. Schoolcraft grew tired of such frequent honeymoons, and apparently thinking his wife was beyond saving, gave up the feverish chase. He alleges in his petition that Eliza is living in the World's Fair city with one Ruhmer, known as "Wild West Bill," and that they pass for husband and wife. Schoolcraft has been ordained as a minister of the Church of England, and does not want any more bother on account of Eliza. There was no defence to the suit, and the court granted a rule nisi.

"She Has Made It a Family Friend."

IT IS WORTHY OF SUCH AN HONOR.

"We are never without your famous Harvard Bronchial Syrup in our house. Two years ago my wife had occasion to test its virtues in a case of sore throat, and found it so effective in removing the trouble, that she has made it a family friend. We have advised scores of friends to use it for coughs and colds, and in every case it has given entire satisfaction."

The above extracts are taken from a Toronto gentleman's letter, and such testimony should prove interesting to all who are looking for an honest and reliable cough preparation.

Harvard Bronchial Syrup has no equal on this continent as a cure for the irritation of the throat and bronchial tubes, hacking cough and enlargement of the tonsils. It does not require several bottles to bring relief. Very often one or two doses will give the desired results. This magnificent remedy is now as popular in our Dominion as it is in the United States. It has never failed to cure the most obstinate colds, and has always triumphed where other cough mixtures have failed.

Try it, reader, if you wish to get rid of that troublesome and dangerous cold; it will do wonders for you.

Phœnix Lager Beer.

Precautions That Should Be Taken.

The world was never so small as it is today. Means of rapid transit are bringing all quarters of the globe closer and closer together. This result has its dangers as well as its advantages. The recent outbreak of cholera in European Russia, of whose daily advance we are made aware by cable, warns us that we have dangers to fear from a too close international relationship.

The grave responsibility of keeping from our land the dreaded scourge of cholera rests upon the sanitary inspectors of our port cities, for it is only through a few great gates of commerce that we have reason to fear its introduction.

Recent experiences with typhus fever in the port of New York have shown that there are weak points in our quarantine defenses which should be remedied. When once these bulwarks are passed, the labor of disinfection is increased a thousandfold.

It should be the duty of the authorities to prepare beforehand for thorough inspection of all arriving vessels and for complete disinfection of all suspected freight and passengers.

The usually easy going American should not allow his good nature to modify the stringency of his maritime sanitary regulations. European officials are to be commended for their increasing vigilance in this respect, for it is by their efforts that the disease may be kept from shipping ports, whence it might be distributed by commerce.—Youth's Companion.

CANADIAN NOTES.

News by Mail and Wire From All Parts of the Dominion.

A rumor is current that Baker, M.P. for Missisiquoi, is to be taken into the Cabinet.

The Government has been notified that Jamaica has withdrawn its quarantine against Canadian vessels.

The vacant customs collectorship at St. Catharines has been filled by the appointment of John G. Cuff, of that city.

The Port Arthur electric railway car house was burned to the ground Saturday. The contents, including one electric car, were destroyed.

A meeting of the Reformers of West Huron was held Friday, and Mr. M. C. Cameron, ex-M.P., was again chosen to represent them at the next contest for the House of Commons.

The factory of Miller Brothers & Co., Montreal, manufacturers of linen-faced collars, paper boxes, etc., a large five-story building, was badly damaged by fire Saturday morning. The loss on the stock amounts to $20,000.

The Globe says that there is no truth in the story telegraphed from Montreal to the effect that a caucus of leading Liberals was held there the other day and was attended by Messrs. Laurier, Edgar and others. It declares there was no caucus.

News comes by way of Montreal that ex-Mayor Howland, of Toronto, has resigned the presidency of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance. His reasons are said to be the persistency of the branch in applying for a plebiscite on the liquor question.

The Sir John Macdonald memorial committee met at Toronto the other day and decided that the proposition of Mr. Hamilton McCarthy, the Toronto sculptor, to erect a bronze statue of the late Premier should be accepted, subject to an amount of $10,000 being raised for that purpose.

The wrecking tug and lighters which went from Boston to Cape Sable Island, Nova Scotia, succeeded in getting off the steamer Britannia, from Boston to Halifax, ashore there. It is a direct violation of the law for United States wreckers to come to British territory and engage in getting off vessels flying the British flag, and international complications are likely to arise.

In a letter from the Sault St. Marie, the Globe correspondent says: "The construction of the Canada Ship Canal is being pushed ahead with a vigor which would seem to indicate that some understanding has recently been entered into between the Government and the contractors for hurrying the work to completion as rapidly as the immensity of the undertaking will permit."

THE MERCIER CASE.

Evidence Relating to the $25,000 Cheque—Bankers' Statements.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29—Mr. E. E. Webb, the manager of the Union Bank, was the first witness and the principal one in the Mercier case to-day. He had given orders to Accountant Smith to forward $25,000 to Montreal. As a general rule when large amounts are forwarded and credited to any account, outside the city, orders have to be given to the accountant to do so. He could not remember if Pacaud had told him to forward the $25,000 to Montreal. Accountant Smith was then called. He testified that he did not know to whom the money belonged which he was ordered to forward to Montreal. Several questions were put to the witness as to the transmission of the money to Montreal, but the council for the defendant objected to every question and, in most instances, the objections were sustained. Several passages at arms took place between Judge Bosse and Mr. Fitzpatrick, in which Mr. Languidos, the counsel for the Crown, took a hand. In February, 1891, witness continued, Mr. Pacaud had an account with the Union Bank. Here the witness was interrupted by Mr. Greenshields, who objected to the private affairs of one defendant being made public. The objection was overruled. The witness testified that the entries in the book were made under his direction. During the morning sitting the witness, Smith, did not answer half a dozen questions, as objections were constantly made by the defendants and every objection with few exceptions was supported by the court. At noon the case was adjourned.

The proceedings at the trial dragged considerably this afternoon and public interest appears to have abated somewhat. The greater part of the time was taken up with a discussion upon the various objections raised by counsel to the questions put by the opposite side. The examination of Mr. Smith was continued. Witness testified as to the sending of $25,000 to Montreal to the credit of Honore Mercier. He could not say from his own personal knowledge that Pacaud had requested him to send the money, but the commission was in the books against Pacaud.

Mr. George B. Balfour, of the Montreal branch of the Union Bank, testified to having received the order from Quebec to place the $25,000 to Honore Mercier's credit in the Jacques Cartier Band. Mr. De Martigny, managing director of the bank, testified that the money had been withdrawn by two checks signed by Hon. Mr. Mercier. These checks had been filled in by J. A. Mercier, who attended to all his brother's financial business whether the latter was in town or not. It is quite possible that J. A. Mercier had filled in checks for large amounts over his brother's signature without Hon. Mr. Mercier's knowledge. The witness had been told by Mr. C. A. Geoffrion, the treasurer of the Liberal election fund, that the money had been handed to him. Hon. Mr. Mercier was in Sorel between the 20th and the 25th, at least so the papers said. Mr. Fitzpatrick made several attempts to discover if the witness' bank had cashed a letter of credit signed by Hon. J. A. Chapleau, then premier, in 1881, in favor of Hon. Mr. McGreevy, for $100,000, the counsel's object being to show that the practice of issuing letters of credit had been in existence since 1867, but the questions were overruled. Mr. C. H. Guilbault's evidence was just commenced when the court adjourned.

Supposed Cholera in Townsend.

PORT TOWNSEND, Oct. 29.—A case which is strongly suspicious of cholera appeared here to day upon the arrival of the American bark Cowlitz, Captain Miller. The Cowlitz sailed from Taku, China, a cholera-infected port, but could not show clearance papers to the customs officials. Upon being boarded by Health Officer Baldwin two of the crew list failed to answer the roll call, and the fact was developed that two deaths had occurred at sea. The bunks of the deceased had been fumigated and the bedding thrown overboard. The Health Officer's suspicions were immediately aroused and the vessel was ordered into quarantine, and will be detained five days to await developments. She will be thoroughly fumigated.

A Postal Experiment.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—The experiment of a street car postal service with substations at drug stores and other convenient stations along the route, has been in progress here during the current week, and is now in good working order. The electric road on which the experiment is being made passes the general postoffice and collects and delivers mail at the substations three times daily, expedition delivery in the West End from three to five hours. This is really a national experiment, and postmaster Harlow is reporting daily to Washington how it works. He is enthusiastic over its success, and believes it will eventually revolutionize the postal service in large cities.

Madagascar Civilization.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Advices received by the post office department indicate that before long letters bearing the postage stamp of Madagascar will be coming to this country. The Malagasy Government has taken a great stride in civilization by organizing an inland postal service, and application has been made to the powers for admission to the Postal Union. The inland service will be delivered by men on foot in relays, traversing by-weekly the 229 miles between Antanarive and Tamatave, and once a week between the former point and the south eastern coast. The Queen and Prime minister have already approved of a design for stamps, which was the work of a native.

No Time for Hunting.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—It is stated by the Standard's Buda Pesth correspondent that the Emperor Francis Joseph has withdrawn his promise to join a hunting party in Godollo this fall and again in the spring. The same correspondent also says that it is declared by a high court official that the Emperor is determined to put down opposition to Count Apponyi for the Hungarian premiership, and that he will not consent to the resignation of any member of the Szaary cabinet.

SALMON CULTURE.

Alarming Report Made by one of the Greatest Experts.

Livingstone Stone, Deputy United States Fish Commissioner, in charge of the salmon breeding station on the McLeod River, in Shasta county, was at the Palace Hotel yesterday, says the San Francisco Call.

Mr. Stone was the first man to establish a salmon-breeding station in America, if not in the world. His first breeding station was established on the Miramichi River, in New Brunswick, twenty-five years ago. Five years later the United States Government sent him out to California to establish a breeding station here, and he fixed it at what is now known as "Baird" station, on the McLeod River. On the station the General Government has expended about $30,000 in buildings alone, and facilities are as complete as they can well be.

Great success has attended the efforts of Mr. Stone and his assistants till recently, but in an interview with a Call reporter last night he expressed himself very strongly to the effect that their efforts were being neutralized by the fishermen at the mouth of the Sacramento river. These men, he declared, are burning the candle at both ends. Instead of allowing the fish to go up into the Upper Sacramento and its tributaries to spawn, they are deliberately destroying the whole industry by not allowing any of them to ascend the stream.

The salmon is in many respects a peculiar fish, as it by instinct always returns for breeding purposes to the stream whence it originally came. It knows no other cold water stream, and there are marked differences between the salmon which are found in one stream and in the next adjoining one, which they ascend, though both may flow into the same bay. No strange salmon ever ascend a stream, and this peculiarity has been noticed for many years by those who have the interests of food fishes at heart. Two years ago the salmon-breeding station of the McLeod River was able without any trouble to obtain in its own neighborhood 14,000,000 salmon eggs, most of which were successfully hatched. Now, owing to the actions of the fish pirates at the mouth of the Sacramento River, the shortness is alarming.

This year they were only with difficulty able to contain 800,000 eggs, or less than 6 per cent. of the number they caught so easily ten years ago. What the outcome will be Mr. Stone says is obvious. The salmon is doomed to extinction in the Sacramento River unless steps are taken at once to stop the wholesale slaughter now going on. When asked what steps he would advise he said the first one would be to make the close season a month longer and have it commence on the first of August instead of the first of September, as at present. A bill to this effect will be introduced at the next session of the legislature, and he hoped it would pass without difficulty, as it was an actual necessity. The salmon is in his opinion, as it is indeed in the opinion of all connoisseurs, the fish of the Pacific Coast, and as it has always been found in great numbers here until lately, has been one of the most important article of food both for local consumption and for export that the Pacific Coast possessed.

Now it is liable to extinction, and this not alone on the Sacramento River, but on every stream even as far north as Alaska. After entering the streams and getting above tidewater man is the only enemy the fish itself has to contend with, but the eggs have many. Among these are the fresh-water sculpin or mudfish, which is the worst of all, the sucker, the trout and the water snake, all of which destroys great quantities of eggs and display much ingenuity in obtaining them.

He feared that unless immediate steps are taken to protect the salmon from the depredations of the cannerymen they themselves would lose all the value of their plants and the breeding station would have to be closed on account of the impossibility of obtaining eggs at the station.

NOTES FROM KOOTENAY.

The Nelson and Fort Sheppard Road—The Indian Murder.

From the Miner.]

Jim Wardner visited Kaslo to negotiate about bringing the ore from the Freddie Lee that way. He offered to build a sleigh road from the mouth of Cody Creek to the lakes, to connect with the wagon road, by January 1st, if the citizens of Kaslo would subscribe $1650 to help build it. The money was forthcoming in a couple of hours, and Mr. Wardner has guaranteed to haul out 500 tons of ore to Kaslo by April 1st, 1893. He is trying to let a contract for 1500 tons. Having arranged this satisfactorily, Mr. Wardner proceeded to buy up all the lots the townsite company still held on the north side of the creek; these amounted to 68 in number. He also purchased three lots on Front street from private parties, and rented a large piece of ground on the south bank of the creek from George Kane to build a corral on. He also sent an order for $7200 werth of feed for his stock.

Skookum Pete, a Siwash, was shot on Tuesday last by his brother. A quarrel took place beween the two some short distance below Davies' ranch, when Pete's brother seized a Winchester and shot him through the heart. The murderer has since given himself up. Captain Fitzstubbs has gone down to investigate the matter. Pete was universally known as a good Indian. Last fall for instance, he was out hunting with a white man, who fell sick in camp. Pete nursed him carefully for a week and finally spent four days in carrying him back to civilization.

There is no question now but that grading will be begun in early spring on the Nelson & Fort Sheppard Railway. The Pend d'Oreille River will be bridged before the water rises, and the work pushed through to a finish. Engineer Roberts, it is said, expects to have locomotives running to Nelson by September of next year. We will certainly have a road before the snow flies. The depot will be located near to the Columbia and Kootenay Railway Company's depot, and the lines will connect. American capital has found out how valuable this country is, and it is determined to get here. Will the C.P.R. make any move? When we have a through road to Spokane, their jerk-water railroad from Robson to Nelson will be at a heavy discount.

An Intellectual Treat.

Miss Howison, who is known all over the east as one of the greatest exponents of Burns' works will lecture next Saturday evening in Sir William Wallace Hall. The press notices received by Miss Howison in the great journals of the Eastern States and Canada are such as to prove that she is an elocutionist of no mean order. Here is what a prominent American journal says of her:—"The lecture had a charm about it that appealed to the finest feelings in human nature. Miss Howison is not a declaimer; is graceful, modest, unpretentious, and refined. She loves the poets with her whole soul, and tells the story of them, as she interprets it from close and enthusiastic study, with simple grace. Her style is conversational, but is winsome in a high degree."

Arrived From London.

The British bark Chili, 155 days from London, arrived in port Sunday morning. Captain McKenzie is master. The Chili has a crew of 16. She brought out a cargo of 1050 tons of general freight for Victoria, including a large quantity of powder for Ward & Co., and bricks for the navy. Off Cape Horn Captain McKenzie reports seeing a large number of icebergs. Alfred Morrell, cook, aged 50, died on the voyage from pleurisy. The Chili will reload with salmon for England.
